DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

DATES TO FEBRUARY 8.

Congressional

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—In the House, Ward introduced a bill fixing the time for the election of representatives to Congress on the Tuesday after the first Monday in December of each alternate year, and providing for the registration of electors by inspectors appointed by the Secretary of the Interior, and also prescribing the mode of naturalization. Papers held by persons in cities of over twenty thousand people, issued since January 1, 1864, shall be surrendered within a year and new papers taken.

A number of bills were introduced and referred. Two Constitutional Amendments were offered, also, several memorials and resolutions of State Legislatures.

Julian introduced a joint resolution to prevent further sales of public lands, except as provided under the pre-emption and homestead laws, regulating grants of lands to railroads, and limiting the sale of land to actual settlers to an amount no greater than a quarter-section. Hopkins moved to lay the joint resolution on the table. Lost by 33 to 133. The morning hour expired and the resolution went over till Monday next.

The business in order was Schenck's motion to suspend the rules and take up the Senate amendment to the copper tariff bill.

Spaulding, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported back the Senate amendment to the consular appropriation bill, which was made the special order for to-morrow. Schenck's motion to suspend the rules was agreed to by 118 to 48. When the Schenck amendments were read, Pike asked if Schenck would admit of discussion. Schenck declined and moved the previous question. Brooke moved to lay the bill on the table. Lost. The previous question was seconded and the amendment concurred in by 112 to 56.

The House went into a Committee of the Whole and resumed the consideration of the army appropriation bill. Several amendments were discussed, and without having made progress the House took a recess.

Petitions were presented for the repeal of the franking privilege.

Ellis introduced a bill to regulate and protect the fur trade in Seal Island, St. Paul, St. George and Alaska.

In the Senate, Sherman presented a petition for the recognition in the Constitution of Almighty God as the source of all civil authority.

Howard, from the Committee on the Pacific Railroad, reported adversely, and asked to be discharged from the further consideration of a large number of bills and memorials granting aid to the construction of railroads.

Wilson, from the Military Committee, reported adversely on the joint resolution grading the Lieutenant General, Admiral and Vice Admiral.

Wilson introduced a bill to establish a line of American steamers between the United States and Europe. It provides for setting apart an amount not to exceed $2,000,000 annually for ten years, from money received by the United States from ocean or inland postage and on foreign mails, for the payment of contracts to be made by the Postmaster General with citizens of the United States for the transportation of foreign mails on American steamers, numbering not less than two nor more than five departures monthly from New York, and two to four from Boston, to be of at least 2,800 tons register and of equal speed to the steamships of a similar class; to carry free all agents of the United States government and all mail matter from the Postoffice Department, but the United States shall receive postage therefrom, the Postmaster General to pay from a fund provided $2,000 for each round voyage, provided the amount derived from postage shall be sufficient; if not such sums as may be derived, and to apportion them ratably for each ship for each voyage. In time of war the Secretary of the Navy may take possession of any or all these steamers for the use and service of the United States, the owners to be paid compensation therefor by the United States and for any damage the vessels may sustain. Referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Edmunds' resolution relative to the counting of the vote of Georgia for President, was taken up, and after discussion passed—34 to 11.

The morning hour expired and brought up the consideration of the amendment, which was discussed by Saulsbury in opposition, and Frelinghuysen in favor.

Davis took the floor and announced his desire to speak several hours, when the Senate took a recess.

Important Decision of the Supreme Court—Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—In the Supreme Court to day, Chief Justice Chase delivered an opinion affirming the decision of the Supreme Court of Oregon that the taxes of that State must be paid in gold and silver according to its laws. The Court held that greenbacks are ample in satisfaction of contracts or agreements, but that taxes are of a different character from such obligations and it is competent for the State to designate the character of money in which taxes should be paid.

Jeffreys, one of the Supreme Judges of Mississippi, was presented to the Reconstruction Committee, proposing a plan for reconstruction.

1st. Congress shall declare all State offices vacant.

2d. To provide for the appointment of a provisional Governor.

3d. To provide for a modification of the obnoxious features of the Constitution.

4th. Provides for the election of State and county officers.

The President to-day nominated to the Senate W. D. Spaulding of Kentucky, as Consul to Yedo; Commodore Andrew A. Pollard, Rear Admiral on the retired list; Post Assistant paymaster Frailly and Assistant paymaster J. P. Loomis as paymasters in the Navy.

The confidential agent of San Domingo is still actively engaged in behalf of the annexation scheme.

The President, in compliance with the solicitation of friends of Mrs. Surratt, has ordered her remains to be disinterred and delivered to her relatives with the understanding that there is to be no public demonstration whatever and that the funeral services are to be privately conducted.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The employers of printers held a meeting to day and resolved to continue resistance to the strike of the book printers, and to employ female compositors.

The brig Brilliant, from Cape Fear River, with rosin and turpentine, was lost in a storm January 28th. The second mate was drowned and the captain and crew rescued from the wreck and brought here by the steamer European.

A dinner was given here this evening to Eugene Casserly, Senator elect from California, by a number of personal and professional friends, irrespective of party politics. Charles O'Connor presided. Speeches were made by Daniel J. Tilton, Rev. Mr. Frothingham, J. W. Simonton, Rev. E. H. Chapin, Gen. Jno. Cochrane, Horace Greeley, Chas. A. Dana and others.

Railroad Accident

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 8.—An eastern bound passenger train, on the Missouri Pacific Railroad ran through an open switch on Saturday night. The engine, baggage, express and smoking cars, were badly wrecked and the engineer fatally injured. Two other men were seriously hurt.

A Prodigal Returned

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 8.—John C. Breckinridge arrived in this city on Saturday, and is the guest of his brother in law, Rev. Dr. Bullock.

The lover of a prominent belle of the New Orleans demi monde had the temerity to drive out with a rival beauty, which so excited the jealousy of the first named that she procured a buggy, followed in pursuit and overtook the gay couple, whereupon the dashing lover leaped out of his buggy and ran for life. The irate woman, however, soon overtook him, then springing to the ground, she attacked him in a prize-ring style. After pummeling him severely in the face with her diamond-ringed fingers the sweet maiden assisted him into her carriage, drove him home and procured for him a physician.

The Lincoln Assassination

CONFESSIONS OF TWO OF THE PRISONERS—STATEMENTS BY ARNOLD AND ATZEROD—THE PLANS OF THE CONSPIRATORS—JOHN H. SURRATT.

From the Baltimore American Jan. 18.

Now that the trial of John Surratt for participation in the assassination of President Lincoln has been thrown out of court through the technicalities of the law, and he is announced as preparing for press a narrative of the whole transaction, it may serve a good purpose to give publicity to the following statement of Samuel B. Arnold, one of the prisoners at the Dry Tortugas, made in Baltimore, voluntarily, four days after the assassination. We also give the confession of Atzerodt, made in his cell on the night before his execution. Both of these confessions we have in our possession in the handwriting of the prisoners, and they have hitherto not been made public under the expectation that they would be used in the trial of John Surratt. The confession of Arnold was made in the office of Marshal McPhail, on the 18th of April, 1865, immediately on his being brought to the city from Fortress Monroe. He sat down at a desk and voluntarily wrote it without any question. The confession of Atzerodt was made in his cell, at Washington, on the night before his execution. He asked for paper, and it is written with a lead pencil, the disconnected manner of it indicating the state of the prisoner's mind:

CONFESSION OF SAMUEL B. ARNOLD, MADE APRIL 18, 1865.

To whom it may concern

Know that I, Samuel B. Arnold, about the latter part of August or first part of September, 1864, was sent for by J. Wilkes Booth, who was a guest at Barnum's Hotel, in the City of Baltimore, Md., to call to see him. I had not seen J. Wilkes Booth since 1852, when we both were schoolmates at St. Timothy's Hall, President L. Van Bokelin then having said Hall as a place of tuition. His reception of me was warm. Calling for wine and cigars, we conversed a short time upon our former school boy days. We were interrupted by a knock at the door, when Michael O'Laughlin was ushered in. After a formal introduction, we sat sipping our wine, and all three smoked a cigar. During smoking, he having heard previously of my political feelings or sentiments, he spoke in glowing terms of the Confederacy and the number of surplus prisoners in the hands of the United States. Then ensued the proposition by J. Wilkes Booth, and which he (J. Wilkes Booth) thought could be accomplished, viz: of kidnapping President Lincoln, as he frequently went unguarded to the Soldiers' Home; and he thought he could be picked up, carried to Richmond, and his exchange produce the exchange for the President of all the prisoners in the Federal hands. He, J. Wilkes Booth, the originator of the scheme, asked if we would enter into it. After painting the chances of success in such glowing colors, we consented, viz: Michael O'Laughlin and myself. We were bound not to divulge it to a living soul. I saw him once more in Baltimore, and then he (J. Wilkes Booth) left to arrange his business up North, first to New York, thence to the Oil Regions, and from there to Boston and finally to Canada. He was to be back in a month. I received a letter, which I destroyed, stating he was laid up with erysipelas in his arm, and as soon as he was able he would be with us. Months rolled round and he did not make his appearance until some time in January. In his trunk he had two guns, cap cartridges, which were placed in the gun-stocks—Spencer rifles I think they were called—revolvers, knives, belts, cartridge boxes, cartridges, caps, canteens—all fully fixed for service—which were to be used in case of pursuit, and two pair of handcuffs to handcuff the President. His trunk being so heavy, he gave the pistols, knives and handcuffs to Michael O'Laughlin and myself, to have shipped or bring to Washington. He then returned from Washington, to which place he had gone, bought a horse, harness and buggy-wagon, leave the team, etc., with us to drive on to Washington. We started from Baltimore about twelve to one o'clock, after having shipped the box containing the knives, handcuffs and pistols, arriving in Washington about seven or half-past seven the same evening. We met him on the street as we were passing the theatre. We alighted, took a drink, and he told us of the theater plan slightly, saying he would wait until we put the horse vay and then tell us more fully. He had previously, as I now remember, spoken of the chances at the theater if we could not succeed in the other plan at the Soldiers' Home. We went to the theater that night, he (J. Wilkes Booth) telling us about the different back entrances, and how feasible the plan was. He had rented a stable in the rear of the theater, having bought two horses down the country. One was in the stable behind the theatre, the other at livery. *Met him next day, went together to break*fast with him. He was always pressed with business with a man unknown to us then, by the name of John Surratt; most of his (Booth's) time was spent with him. We were left entirely in the dark. Michael O'Laughlin and myself rented a room on D Street, No. 420, and obtained meals at the Franklin House, on the corner of D and Eighth streets. We thus lived for nearly two months, seeing him perhaps three or four times during the week, and, when seen, always but for a short time, having still pressing business always on hand, viz: to see John Surratt. Michael O'Laughlin and myself drove out occasionally; the horse liveried at Mr. Nailor's stable. We drove always (but once) in the city and Georgetown; the once excepted, across the Eastern Branch bridge, when we went upward of five miles, I suppose, and returned. This was the only time I ever went over the bridge. How often J. Wilkes Booth crossed I cannot state, but from his own words, often. Thus was Michael O'Laughlin's and my time spent for the most part—down at Rullman's Hotel (now Sinclair House,) on Pennsylvania Avenue and Louisiana Avenue, in drinking and amusements, with other Baltimoreans besides ourselves congregating there all of whom knew nothing of our business but that of selling oil stock. Oil stock was the blind for them as well as my family. During the latter part of March, while standing on Rullman's porch, between 11 and 12 o'clock P. M., a young man name unknown, as I cannot remember names—about five feet five or six inches high, thick set, long nose, sharp chin, wide cheeks, small eyes, (gray, I think) dark hair, and well dressed—color I don't remember—called Michael O'Laughlin aside, and said J. Wilkes Booth wished to see us at Gotier's saloon, on the avenue. I was then for the first time introduced to him, but forgot his name. We walked up together, Michael O'Laughlin, this unknown and myself were ushered into the presence of J. Wilkes Booth, who introduced me to John Surratt, Atzerodt, alias Port Tobacco, ——, alias Moseby, making in all seven persons. J. Wilkes Booth had sent word to Michael O'Laughlin to bring me up in a good humor (Still always in the dark.) Then commenced the plan for seizing the President. Each had his part to perform. First I was to rush into the private box and seize the President, while Atzerodt and J. Wilkes Booth were to handcuff him and lower him on the stage, while Moseby was to catch him and hold him till we got down. Surratt and the unknown were to be on the other side of the Eastern Branch bridge to facilitate escape. It was afterwards changed to Moseby and Booth to catch him in the box and to lower him to me on the stage. O'Laughlin and the unknown were to put the lights out, and Surratt and Atzerodt, alias Port Tobacco, to be on the other side of the bridge. I was opposed to the whole proceeding, and said it could not be accomplished if ever, which was an impossibility we could get him out of the house and to the bridge, we would be stopped by the sentinel. "Shoot the sentinel," said Booth. I said that would not do, for if an alarm was given there the whole thing was up, and as for me, I wanted the shadow of a chance for escape and success. Michael O'Laughlin wanted to argue the same way, whereupon J. Wilkes Booth said: "You find fault with everything concerned about it." I said, no, that I wanted to have a chance, and I intended to have it; that he could be the leader of the party, but not my executioner. Whereupon J. Wilkes Booth remarked, in a stern, commanding and angry voice: "Do you know you are liable to be shot? Remember your oath." I told him the [illegible] [illegible] had changed, and a [illegible] broken is broken by all. [illegible] I declined [illegible] you have no further [illegible]. I [illegible] defend myself. This, if I remember aright, was on a Friday, or may be a Thursday night, when I said: Gentlemen, if this is not accomplished this week I [illegible] withdraw [illegible]. I stayed up [illegible] next morning. Friday Saturday, and then went to bed. I remained indoors until 12 when I arose and went to get my breakfast. [illegible] O'Laughlin and myself roomed together [illegible] arose at the same time and were always [illegible] together. Went to bed [illegible] evening [illegible]. This day that I went [illegible] so early we met about 2 or thereabouts [illegible] I spoke angrily the night of meeting [illegible] and I [illegible] drinking. I told him [illegible] I was in my sober senses and meant every word I said [illegible] this week I withdraw. Next day the thing was to be accomplished on the Seventh street road, and failed. On Sunday I stayed in Washington, and on Monday or Tuesday I returned to the city of Baltimore, and thence to Hookstown. J. Wilkes Booth in the meantime went to New York, and returned to Baltimore during the week. On Saturday, I think. He said he wished to see me on very urgent business and my father sent for me. I came from the country and he had gone to Washington, whereupon I wrote him a letter which was found in his trunk. The Richmond authorities, as far as I know, knew nothing of the conspiracy. The letter was written after my return to the country, after finding he could not wait to see me in Baltimore. During the week I came to the city and met Michael O'Laughlin who asked me to go to Washington with him to finally arrange his affairs. I went in the morning—Friday, I think—and returned same evening home, having cut loose forever from it. On the next day I received a letter from J. W. Wharton, at Fortress Monroe, giving me employment. Went to the country, got my clothing, and on Saturday, the 1st day of April, left Baltimore for Fortress Monroe, at which place I have remained, never corresponding with Booth or seeing him from the above-named date to the present writing. The groundwork was to kidnap the President without violence. He never to me said that he would kill him. Further than this I know nothing, and am innocent of having taken any active part in the dark deed committed.

SAMUEL B. ARNOLD.

The plan of escape was to place Mr. Lincoln in the buggy purchased for that purpose, and cross Eastern Branch bridge. Surratt and Atzerodt, alias Port Tobacco, were to follow them to where he had a boat concealed, turn the horse loose, place the President in the boat, and cross the Potomac to the Virginia shore, and thence to make our way to Richmond. Surratt knew the route and was to act as pilot.

SAMUEL B. ARNOLD.

A box painted black, like unto a sword box, was sent by Booth from the hotel by the porter there to our room. The next day it was transferred in a wagon, O'Laughlin acting as pilot, to some place. I was not present. After giving the box to the driver went to Georgetown, and O'Laughlin had full charge of it. M. O'Laughlin said he took it to Mr. Heard's, and from thence the unknown carried it home. Took the guns out and carried them to Pedee. This latter clause Booth told me.

SAMUEL B. ARNOLD.

Witness: V. Randall, E. G. Horner.

BALTIMORE, April 18, 1865.

NOTE.—Besides this written statement of Arnold's, he verbally communicated the fact that Booth was the correspondent of Drs. Mudd, Garland and Queen. This fact was told the Secretary when I presented him Arnold's statement.

J. L. McPHAIL.

CONFESSION OF ATZERODT.

I had not seen John Surratt for about eight days before the murder. Booth told me a few days before the murder that he was in Washington. Kate Thompson alias Brown came from Richmond with John Surratt about the time that Richmond fell. He had come previously with Gustavus Howell, now in the Old Capitol Prison. Kate Thompson stopped at Mrs. Surratt's, and also at the National and Rinuel Hotels. This woman was about 21 years of age, spruce and neat, medium size, black eyes and fair complexion. She had a sister in New York, who was a widow. Surratt was made known to her in New York by a signal conveyed by a small switch with a waxed end and a piece of red ribbon on the butt, handled horizontally through the fingers. This sign was given on a hotel pavement on Broadway. He went with her South, and hired a horse at Howard's stable for the purpose.

Harold came to the Kirkwood House and left the knife, pistol and coat, on the evening of the murder, about 6:30 o'clock, as I was about leaving, I having told the clerk to tell whoever might call that I was gone out. This was before Harold came in. Harrold and I then went to the Herndon House, Mrs. Murray's, corner of Ninth and F streets. It was then about 8 o'clock, and I saw Booth, Wood and Payne in Wood's room. Here the proposed murder was first mentioned. I refused to take part in it, when Booth said, "Then we will do it, but what will become of you? you had better come along and get your horse." I then left them and went to the Oyster Bay on the avenue, and stayed sometime; then to the stable and got my horse and went up D street. This was about 10 o'clock. I called at the Rinnel House and got a drink. I saw none of the party after we separated about 9 o'clock that evening. I then went out C street toward the Baltimore depot; went between the old and new Capitol; came on the avenue again, and concluded to come back. I rode down the avenue and the cavalry were dashing by me. This was the first I heard of the murder. I then went up Eighth street, left the horse at the stables opposite the Franklin House, and then went to the Herndon House, and heard a little boy talking about the murder. I then took a car and went toward the Navy yard. This was about 11 o'clock, and I met two young men named Briscoe and Spates, with whom I had some talk. After walking some distance I took a car to the corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue. Here I met a man inquiring for a place to sleep. I took him around to the Kinnel House, and we retired to one room with six beds in it. I left early next morning and passed through Georgetown on my way to Montgomery county. No one left the hotel with me. I saw Mike O'Laughlin about a week before the President was killed. I never wanted O'Laughlin and Arnold's aid. I met O'Laughlin once or twice at Suthard's, and a few times in the street. When we were at Murray's, on the night of the murder, Harrold said he had a letter from a printer to Andy Johnson. He said he was going to give it to him, and he wanted me to give him the key of my room, which I refused to do. Previous to the arrangement for the murder Booth heard that the President was to visit a camp. The coach was to be taken out Seventh street. Surratt was to jump on the box, as he was the best driver, and drive through Old Fields to the Long Bridge. This was about the middle of March. O'Laughlin, Samuel Arnold, Payne, Surratt, Booth, Atzerodt and Harrold went to the Long Bridge with two carbines, and were to wait for us. They did so until midnight, and returned to Washington next morning. This failed. All was quiet then for some time. Booth went to New York, Arnold to Baltimore, O'Laughlin also, and Payne left for New York. After this, Howell brought a woman across the Potomac. Howell was made prisoner, and Surratt took her North, about a week before the murder. Booth told me that Surratt was at the Herndon House on the night of the murder, the 14th of April, we were [illegible] all together at the Herndon House. Booth [illegible] me Surratt was to help at the box that he expected others in the box. Booth went from the Herndon House down Ninth street. The words of Booth were, "I saw Surratt a few moments ago." As the parties appeared to be engaged at something on that night, and were together, Booth appointed me and Harrold [illegible] Johnson. In going up with the street, [illegible] Booth [illegible] [illegible] Booth said Harrold had not courage and [illegible] Harrold and I were to Pennsylvania avenue [illegible] [illegible] fear he would disturb Mr. [illegible]. He left me to go for Booth. [illegible] I went to Oyster Bay, and Harrold [illegible] said that Booth wanted to see me. [illegible] I [illegible] get my horse [illegible] I was [illegible] at the Kirkwood House [illegible] have no recollection of being there after that. I had nothing [illegible] at any of the meetings. One of the attempts was at the theatre. The gas was to be put out. A [illegible] was had about failure and what [illegible] in that case. The [illegible] at Lloyd's was to [illegible] the street [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] Booth told me at [illegible] was to [illegible] at the theatre to [illegible] the President and take him off and Booth said when appealed to for money, he would go to New York and get some, as he had it there. Mrs. Surratt, Mrs. Slater, Major Banon and John Surratt left Washington together, got horses at Howard's. Mrs. Surratt stopped at Surrattsville. John Surratt and Mrs. Slater crossed and Banon and Mrs. Surratt came back. Banon was in the rebel army. I don't think Banon knew anything of the conspiracy. I sold a horse for Booth and thought the affair was about over. The murder was broached first on the 14th, at night, when Harrold came for me. I did hear Booth say Lincoln ought to be killed. A widow woman was living near Mr. Seward's, and Booth said by her influence he could get entrance to Seward's house, through her influence with the chambermaid and house servant. The girl at the house was good looking and knew the widow. Harrold was into it first. He came to Port Tobacco for me with John Surratt during the winter. The boat was at the head of Goose Creek, and moved to Nanjemoy Creek. It was a lead-colored, flat-bottom boat, and would carry fifteen men. This boat was bought of James Brawner, the old man. Mrs. Slater went with Booth a good deal. She stopped at the National Hotel.

THE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA.—A German [illegible] Professor Carl Neuman of Munich is stated has discovered from the Chinese [illegible] books that a company of Buddhist [illegible] entered the continent of America six [illegible] thousand years before Columbus, [illegible] thoroughly and intelligently the [illegible] penetrating into the Aztec [illegible] of the land of Fusang," so called [illegible] the Chinese name of the Mexican aloe. [illegible]

In this city in 1861 there was in business [a] very intelligent Chinese merchant, named [illegible], who, even in this country, had [illegible] a library of books in his native language, [illegible] in speaking of the Indian tribes of [illegible], said that he detected in use among [illegible] many Chinese words, and that he believed they were descended from the Chinese. [illegible] old Chinese books he had read mention was made of two vessels having left his country and landed on this continent He thought that these vessels landed somewhere [in] Oregon, where one of the vessels was [illegible] and a number of them were finally left behind to form a settlement, the remaining vessel returning to China in the expectation that the Government would send out to the newly discovered land a fleet of vessels [and] full supplies for the settlement When this vessel reached China there was some trouble or change in the Government, no other expedition was ever fitted out, and those left behind in the strange land were [left] to take care of themselves.—Virginia [City] Enterprise.

The Boston Journal says "We have lately heard this capital incident related, and can vouch for its authenticity One day, when Miss Larcom happened to be on a visit to the family of John G. Whittier in Amesbury, an admirer of the Quaker poet, knocked at the door of the cottage to pay his respects to the man whose works had for so many years afforded him special delight. As usual on such occasions, Whittier sat silent, while the visitor poured out his tribute of admiration and thanks. 'The piece I like best of all your poems,' said the gentleman, 'is one, "Hannah Binding Shoes;" that seems to me very beautiful.' 'Yes,' rejoined Whittier immediately, 'that is truly a very beautiful piece, and I agree with you in all the praise you can bestow upon it.' The stranger looked surprised to hear the taciturn poet warm up at such a rate over one of his own poems, when Whittier added in his own sly and quiet manner: "But let me introduce you to the author of that poem, Miss Lucy Larcom, the lady sitting opposite you.'"

Our Georgia correspondent, in the letter we published yesterday, gave what, in spite of all drawbacks, we must regard as on the whole an encouraging picture of the prospects in that State. The cotton crop is good, the relations between whites and negroes friendly,—the former paying promptly on all their contracts for work, and the latter being satisfied with the results of their labor. "In no part of the world," says our correspondent. "is the corresponding class of laborers as prosperous, in a material sense as these negroes." This is rather strong language, but we hope that facts justify it. Politics seem to be, by general consent, discarded,—the general anxiety on all sides being to "go to work and make something."—New York Post.

The London Review is very hard on Mr. Reverdy Johnson for saying, at the recent banquet of the French Atlantic Telegraph Company, that "he was more sure that amicable relations would be maintained, whatever political changes took place in England or America, than he was of the sun shining upon London on the following day." This declaration the Review thinks "contained a piece of subtle irony touching our delightful climate." As it happened, the sun did not shine the next day, and very seldom does at this season.

A correspondent describes the famous author, Edmond About, as a "middle-aged gentleman, very fat, very sleepy looking, and very slow in his movements." This is not precisely the ideal picture cherished by the admirers of one of the ablest and confessedly one of the most brilliant of modern French authors.

CHANCE OF NAME!

MERCADO & CO., SUCCESSORS TO Mercado & Seully, have [illegible] for their own protection and the safety of the public, to change the name of their celebrated Bitters to

MERCADO'S Native California Wine BITTERS

We subjoin the following affidavit taken in the case formerly pending between Mercado & Seully, plaintiffs, and [illegible] A. Pimon, defendant

P. Sainsevain, being duly sworn, says: [illegible] article known as Sainsevain's California Wine Bitters was manufactured by Mercado & Seully, about the month of March, 1861, without the said Sainsevain Brothers having any concern in the manufacture thereof. The deponent has always known and considered said Mercado & Seully as the Sole Proprietors of the Sainsevain California Wine Bitters."

Notwithstanding the above affidavit the said P. Sainsevain is putting up a compound under the name of Sainsevain's California Wine Bitters, representing it to be the same as our celebrated Bitters, which we have been manufacturing and selling in immense quantities since 1860, and also affixing a nearly similar label to that used on our genuine Wine Bitters. BE NOT DECEIVED. Send for

NATIVE CALIFORNIA WINE BITTERS.

And you will obtain the same popular beverage so favorably known since 1860. Beware of Counterfeits! Purchasers of our Wine Bitters are requested to observe the familiar old yellow label, and see that the words, "MERCADO & SEULLY, SAN FRANCISCO," are engraved on the Government stamp pasted over the cork of each bottle. This is the only effectual security against the counterfeit imitations.

NOTES.

Proposals must be to carry the mail with "celerity, certainty, and security," using the terms of the law, and they must be guaranteed by two responsible persons, certified to as such by a postmaster or judge of a court of record.

No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each [illegible] omission not satisfactorily explained three times the pay of the trip may be deducted For arrivals so far behind time as to break connections with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one-fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained, for neglecting to take the mail from or into a postoffice, for suffering it to be injured, robbed, or lost, and for refusing after demand to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running vehicles on the route. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for repeated [illegible] of the post office laws or the instructions of the Department. He may alter the schedule of departures or arrivals and also order an increase of service by allowing a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may also [illegible] or discontinue service in whole or in part [illegible] decrease of pay allowing one month's extra pay [illegible] amount of service dispensed with. Bids should be addressed to the "Second Assistant Postmaster General," superscribed "Proposals, State of Oregon," and sent by mail.

For forms of proposal, &c., and other information, see advertisement of this date, in pamphlet form, at the principal post offices. ALEX W. RANDALL, j11dlaw4w Postmaster General.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent, the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to everything of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing, AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

TELEGRAMS FROM THE EAST AND EUROPE

are published as full as in the California journals, and put before our readers from ONE TO THREE DAYS BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE STATE.

Among its corps of writers are regular correspondents at New York and Washington City, men who, having lived in this State, are able to write on Eastern affairs, both politically and commercially from an Oregon standpoint.

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

EXTENDED AND RELIABLE

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be, as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism. Being firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.

TERMS:

One Year	$3 00.
Six Months	2 00.
Three Months	1 00.

The WEEKLY OREGONIAN has been a favorite paper for mailing to friends in the East It will be mailed from the office at subscription rates

Subscribers will find on each paper, with their names, the date on which their subscriptions expire, as entered on our books. In renewing, the name of subscriber and post office should be distinctly written

All papers are discontinued at the end of the time for which they have been paid, the date of which is always printed with the name each week.

REMIT BY MAIL AT OUR RISK, in presence of Postmaster, or pay to the nearest authorized agent.

We ask our friends to aid us in extending the circulation of the OREGONIAN in every direction.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, puffing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, [illegible] If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was [illegible] complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these [illegible] not forget the sacred responsibility [illegible] them, not delay to obtain immediate relief

DOCTOR GIBBON [illegible] will give to each patient a written [illegible] to effect a radical and permanent [illegible] charge.

UP THE COLUMBIA.—We clip the following paragraphs from the Walla Walla Statesman of the 5th: Mr. H. Parker, left by Thursday's stage on a hurried trip to the Atlantic States, intending to return in time to take part in the spring campaign. .... The "oldest inhabitant" says he has never known such a mild winter in this Valley or anywhere else outside the tropics. Indeed, so warm is the weather that already the buds on the trees begin to swell and gardeners are busily at work in the gardens. During the whole winter we have not had a single really cold day, and stock that has been running at large looks near about as well as at the close of summer. .... A young man named J. Carroll, just down from Florence, was taken sick in the early part of the week, and from the symptoms was supposed to have the small pox. He was at once removed to the City Hospital, but after being there a day or two recovered his health, and on Thursday morning left the Hospital perfectly well. We have here an illustration of how needlessly people become alarmed and rush from safety into danger. The unfortunate man named Joseph Farquar, who came to Walla Walla, after being exposed to the small pox contagion, died at an early hour, this (Friday) morning. His remains have been taken in charge by the city authorities, and will be buried in such a manner as to avoid all danger of communicating the disease. With the death of this man there is not a single case of small pox in town, and from the vigor displayed by the Mayor and Council we feel safe in saying that there is little danger of new cases arising. ...Our friend Jacobson was in town a few days since, and reported the settlement of Waitsburg as flourishing. Since last fall no less than twelve new buildings have been put up, and still the sound of the saw and the hammer is heard in all directions. Surveys have been made, streets laid off, and the place is rapidly assuming the proportions of a thriving country town. The old school house having been found too small, has been sold, and a new school house is being built that is estimated to cost $3,000. The census of the town shows three stores, one first-class flouring mill, three blacksmith shops, one saloon, four carpenter shops, one hotel, and the usual accompanying establishments that go to make up a town.

POSTAL.—Mr. Brooks, the special agent of the Post-office Department, has lately removed his office from the Court House to Knapp, Burrell & Co's building on the riverside, corner of Front and Alder, where we found him yesterday occupying very comfortable quarters. In answer to our inquiry for a news item, he referred us to his memorandum book, from which we learned the following, not heretofore published, concerning new post offices, offices discontinued, and appointments of postmasters since November last.

New offices—Port Orchard, W. T., Nicholas Hale Postmaster; North Powder, Union county, Oregon, Joseph Austin, Postmaster; Beaver, Clackamas county, J. R. Graham; Mollalla, Clackamas county, Harrison Wright; Dayville, Grant county, James N. Brackett.

Offices discontinued—Pleasant Valley, Baker county; Miami Prairie, W. T.; and Summit, Benton county.

Commissions forwarded to Postmasters—Wm. B. Clarke, Bruceport, W. T.; Wm. Haynes, Oakland, Oregon; Wilson Carl, Mountain House, Yamhill county; R. H. Duncan, Brownsville, Linn county; Bailey Gatzert, Umatilla; Reuben Doty, Eola, Polk county; Wm. D. Gilliam, Dalles; John M. Bacon, Oregon City; George Drew, Oro, Owyhee; A. J. Sturtevant, Pilot Rock; Geo. J. Hogue, Botsfort, W. T.; J. R. Spender, Newellsville, Marion county; Jos. M. Donnell, Emmettsville, Ada county, Idaho; Mrs. Charlotte A. Calkins, Oswego, office re-established Jan. 5th; John W. McGrew, Lincoln, Oregon; Wm. Campbell, Elk City, Idaho; Matthew L. Home, Sherwood Mills, W. T.; Ebenezer Dimmick, Grant's Pass, Jackson county; Ezra L. Hemmingway, Deschuttes, Wasco county; Wm. H. Martin, Martin's Bluff, W. T., office re-established; Luther White, Diamond Hill, Oregon; Patrick Quinn, Pekin, Clarke county, W. T.; Ira S. Bennett, Kalama, Clarke county, W. T.

CIRCUIT COURT.—The February term of the Circuit Court, Judge R. P. Boise presiding, opened yesterday. The following are the proceedings had:

On Motion of Lansing Stout, Esq., Mr. Carl C. Bronaugh was admitted to the bar of the Court, as an attorney and counsellor at law.

Seth W. Eddy vs. Rachel H. Eddy; suit for divorce; default of defendant entered and cause referred to Sam. A. Moreland to take proofs. Logan, Shattuck and Killin for plaintiff.

Fred. Mearst vs. Christina Mearst; suit for divorce; default of defendant entered and cause referred as above.

John Teel vs. W. G. Welsh; dismissed at cost of plaintiff. Bronnaugh and Bybee for plaintiff; Logan, Shattuck and Killin for defendant.

J. C. Jamison vs. J. C. Congle; dismissed at cost of defendant. Whalley and Fechheimer for plaintiff; Page for defendant.

Marietta Hall vs. Joseph Hall; divorce granted. Logan, Shattuck and Killin for plaintiff.

The following were drawn from the general panel as grand jurors: J. C. Ainsworth, [illegible], Jacob Fleschner, John A. Blanchard, Geo. F. [illegible], [illegible] H. Durbeimer, P. J. McGowan, O. Deitsch.

Presiding Judge, R. P. Boise, [illegible] the jury at length and the jury retired [illegible] to perform their duties.

Chas. Hopkins and W. B. Cooper, were excused on account of sickness from farther attendance at this term of Court. Adjourned until Monday morning at nine o'clock.

SALEM ITEMS.—We learn from the Unionist that last Saturday one of the main shafts in the woolen factory, was broken, which necessitated a stop at work until repaired. One hundred employees are thrown out of work when operations are suspended at this mill. ...J. M. Garrison is the W. C. T. of Capital Lodge I. O. G. T. for the current term, and James Chambers the Secretary. .....A weather record for January, kept by Mr. F. Pearce, shows that during the month there were nineteen rainy days, that is to say, the 1st to the 5th inclusive, 7th, 8th, 10th, 11th, 14th, 22d to 28th, 30th and 31st. There was one cloudy day, viz: the 29th. The clear days were eleven in number—the 5th, 9th, 12th, 13th and 15th to 21st inclusive. The wind blew from the south twenty-one days, and from the north, ten days. During the clear days, with two exceptions, the wind blew from the north. The south wind brought rain with it. The highest mean temperature for the month was 48°, which was the 4th of the month, the lowest was 28°, on the 22d. The mean temperature for the whole month was 38°. The first of the month the mean temperature noted 36°, and the 31st was 41°. On the 8th there was a thunder shower, and on the hills a light snow on the 27th.

THE "WILLAMETTE FARMER."—It will be remembered that at the last State Fair, the Board of Managers decided to start an agricultural newspaper to be under the control of the [illegible]. A committee appointed for the purpose have been since [illegible] making arrangements for the publication, and we learn that the first issue will appear on the 1st of Mar[illegible]. It will be an eight page paper, nearly as large as the Ohio Agriculturist and will be called The Willamette Farmer. John Minto, of Marion county, is to be the editor and A. L. Stinson, Publisher and Proprietor. Mr. Minto is intensely devoted to farming interests and he wields a ready pen. It is to be hoped that the new journal will receive better treatment at the hands of the agriculturists of the State than have any of its predecessors in the same line.

A CONSIDERATE THIEF.—We are informed that the papers lately stolen from Mr. D. P. Thompson at Oregon City, have been returned to him; or, rather, they were left in his stable, where he found them. Among the returned articles were the checks and notes. The thief kept only the cash and greenbacks, not caring probably, to undertake the collection of the sums due on the papers. He certainly takes a practical, common-sense view of the matter and seems less careless than most rogues, about waste of property; he is willing that Mr. Thompson shall have such of it as he can't make conveniently available. No nonsense about that thief. Shouldn't wonder if he should yet return the greenbacks on account of their being below par.

CONCERT.—We learn that Oro Fino Theater has been engaged for a concert to be given next Tuesday evening by the daughters of Prof. Mercier, colored. These girls are the same who sang at the late Emancipation Celebration at the Court House, eliciting very general commendation from the audience. We have heard very good musical judges pronounce the singing of the elder girl, quite equal to that of any of the female singers of the city. The concert will have the attraction of novelty, at least, if it has no greater.

CHINESE NEW YEAR.—The sons and daughters—and for aught we know, the brothers and sisters, aunts and uncles and all the poor relations—of the Celestial Empire, were, yesterday, celebrating their New Year. Owing to our non-intimacy with that crowd, we are not able to state with the same precision as does one of our cotemporaries, the exact number of the anniversary; and after mature reflection we have arrived at the conclusion that it makes but little difference any way.

PORTLAND PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—At a recent election of officers of the above Society, the following gentlemen were elected to serve the ensuing year. President, S. J. McCormick; Vice President, P. C. Schuyler, Jr.; Secretary, E. Quackenbush; Directors, Wm. Wadhams, T. A. Davis, Dr. J. H. Hatch. We learn that the next Concert will be given on Friday evening, the 19th inst.

PASSENGERS FOR VICTORIA.—The following is the passenger list of the steamer Active, hence for Victoria, last evening: Mrs. Jacob Camp[illegible], J. Collins, J. Dockle[illegible], A. Greene, H. C. Bond, E. S. Kearney, J. C. Drake, J. F. McCoy, Wm. Fried, F. B. Mason, J. Draper, Miss Jane Moore, John Lawrence, L. Zegler, Miss P. Looney, Mary Stratty, Felicita Valesquellor, and Edward Cassidy.

A COMPREHENSIVE SPECIALTY.—A colored Doctor advertises in one of our State exchanges that he has established himself in [illegible] "to benefit man in every way," but his specialty is "the restoration of hair upon bald heads," etc., "the curing of rheumatic pains, consumption and all the other diseases that human flesh is heir to." We call that rather a broad guage specialty.

BOARD OF DELEGATES.—The lately elected members of the Board of Delegates will, in pursuance of the State law, meet at the Council Chamber to-morrow evening—the 2d Thursday in February—for the purpose of organizing the new Board by election of officers, committees, etc.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.—The County Commissioners are still sitting daily, being engaged in examining the reports and adjusting the accounts of road supervisors, etc. Up to yesterday very little business had been concluded, worthy of note.

MINSTRELS.—The Lafont & Ward troupe gave an excellent performance last evening, to about an average audience at Oro Fino Theater. These entertainments are about as much [illegible] as anything of the sort ever presented here. The boys got off some new jokes last night and have others in store for their next appearance.

FREIGHT FOR VICTORIA.—The steamship Active sailed last evening for Victoria, with [illegible] tons produce and assorted freight, 21 beef cattle and 11 head of sheep.

RAIN.—Very heavy rains have fallen within the last two or three days, flooding the streets in consequence of defective drains, and making things generally disagreeable.

NOT TRUE.—The report that Byron Z. Holmes had been attacked by small pox at Jacksonville is contradicted. A dispatch from him says he is all right.

PIRATES

SAIL UNDER FALSE COLORS!!

THE BEST EVIDENCE OF THE VALUE OF AN article may be found in the fact of its having numerous imitators. Every fine poem has its parodies, every meritorious literary work is subject to plagiarisms, every successful play has been burlesqued, every honest man has his detractors, every genuine dollar has been counterfeited, and every valuable medicinal preparation has its vile imitations. The proprietors of have encountered the usual experience in this respect. Such has been the success of this sterling preparation, that all inferior articles of the kind have virtually been driven from the market. The concoctors of these beverages, finding that this new Tonic has exactly met the public want, and that no further demand exists for inferior preparations, have resorted to the dishonest expedient of imitating either the name or the style of label, both of which have been duly secured by the laws of the State to the proprietors of the I X L Bitters.

In justice to ourselves, as well as to the public who may be deceived by those nefarious practices, we hereby notify all parties guilty of infringement on our rights as well as those who have been buying up our old bottles in order to palm off their own nostrums as the genuine article, that they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

For the further protection of consumers, we would state that we never sell our Bitters in bulk, but always by the case. Look for our Trade Mark on every bottle, and in ordering the article otherwise than direct from us, be sure to order "Dr. Henley's Wild Grape Root I X L Bitters," and do not allow yourself to be imposed upon with an inferior article.

that it is "usurpation" for the people of this country to amend their Constitution in the way which that instrument itself prescribes. The generally received view is that the people are sovereign, and that they may change their Constitution in any particular as they may see fit. But this is not the Democratic idea. Their notion is that each amendments as they dislike are "usurpations." This, again, is the very argument they used against the abolition of slavery.

We have heretofore stated the common-sense view of this suffrage amendment. It is not needed so much to protect the rights of colored citizens in the North as to abate the opposition to negro suffrage in the South. Considered in itself it is a matter of very little moment whether those Northern States which now exclude their few colored citizens from the ballot box shall admit them to that privilege or not; but negroes vote in the South and cannot be deprived of the suffrage, and there will be attempts to deprive them of it until the whole question is settled by a guarantee of the right of colored citizens to vote in all the States. There are probably less than one hundred male negro citizens in Oregon over twenty-one years of age; and we have no idea that when they are admitted to the ballot box the State government will thereby be subverted and the foundations of society overturned. The suffrage amendment is needed to secure peace and political tranquility; and the country, knowing this, will adopt it.

REDUCING THE INTEREST.—The New Hampshire Republicans have passed a resolution to the effect that the Government ought to restore its currency to a sound basis and then fund the debt at a lower rate of interest than that now paid. The Herald notices this, and interprets it as a proposition to repudiate a portion of the interest! Such dullness is positively amazing. Every person of ordinary intelligence knows that the proposition to fund the debt at a lower rate of interest presupposes a new loan and the payment of the present bondholders for every dollar of their claims, principal and interest. If we make our credit better we may get a new loan at a reduced rate of interest, and this would have been possible before now but for Democratic threats of repudiation.

"PLAYING OFF."—During the debate on the Sue Murphy claim, a Senator read a letter from Mary E. Austin, of Decatur, Alabama, in which the claimant's "loyalty" is thus ventilated: "I wish Senator Anthony would visit Decatur. The Union people and rebels could tell him about her [the claimant's] loyalty during the war. They could tell him of her devotion to the Southern Confederacy, how she urged every young man into the rebel army whom she had any influence over. Rebels here laugh enough about her going to Washington and playing off on the Senators."

THE FRANKING PRIVILEGE. The House has done something towards reforming the abuses of the franking privilege. It has passed Farnsworth's bill prohibiting members of Congress and others entitled to the franking privilege from exercising said privilege otherwise than by his or her written autograph signature upon the matter franked. This does away with the business of stamping franks by machinery, which has recently been indulged in to such a large extent. It is not doubted that the Senate will act favorably on the bill.

J. P. Currin of Lane county has received the appointment from the Senator from Lane to the State Agricultural College.

feeble efforts to increase the items of the appropriation bills, after they leave the Committee, where they have been reduced to the lowest limit, &c. The sentiment for economy is strong and the responsibility of members is apparently felt more keenly now than for many years before."

The proposition for material reduction of the army is another evidence of the desire of Congress to cut off expenses in every possible way. During the last year nearly two-thirds of all the troops in the service have been employed against the Indians on the Plains; but the place which Sheridan has conquered with those tribes and their "unconditional surrender" promise to release several thousand soldiers from service in that quarter. They may therefore be mustered out as fast as their terms of service expire, and the army may thus be reduced and the regiments consolidated. A winter campaign with a large force, whereby the Indians have been more severely punished than ever before, has brought all the survivors to terms, and it is the opinion of prominent officers of the army that there will never be another serious Indian war.

The same desire to retrench and economize is manifested in the treatment of railroad subsidies. Instead of authorizing the issue of United States bonds as heretofore, the most that Congress will do is to consider a proposition that the Government shall guarantee the interest only on a limited amount of railroad bonds, which bonds are to be secured by first mortgage, the companies to be required to pay the interest and principal as they become due, to indemnify the United States for the guarantee of interest. This plan if adopted, will be the inauguration of a totally new policy, which, while it will not increase the public debt or require the issue of Government bonds, will so extend the aid of the Government as to insure the prosecution of our great railroad enterprises, without the danger of adding to the public burden or hazarding the public credit. But so general is the desire in Congress to avoid all further embarrassments, that it is doubtful whether even this scheme will be adopted.

BRIGADIER GENERALS. On the 20th January the President nominated Cols. Buchanan and Gillem to be Brigadier Generals in the regular army, in place of Gen. Hooker retired and Gen. Rousseau, deceased. We suppose they will not be confirmed, as there are propositions to reduce the army and the number of General officers.

STATE ITEMS.

The Guard reports an affray at Eugene between Zack More and J. J. Patton, in which the latter received a very dangerous wound in the right side from an ax in the hands of the former. It is feared the wound will prove fatal.

A man named J. R. Butler in Polk county was very badly hurt last week by the fall of a [illegible] from a tree which he was cutting down. His face was cut in frightful manner and several of his teeth knocked out.

Says the Eugene Journal: "It is rumored that a disease is prevailing in the vicinity of [illegible]ville, which has proved fatal in several cases, seeming to be something like a spotted fever. We are not informed of the nature of the disease, but hear that three persons have died within a few days in that neighborhood."

The Boston Post says the Springfield Republican is so non-partisan that it would hardly be recognized as a Democratic paper outside of Massachusetts.

"There never lived a man who was lionized," says an exchange, "that it did not spoil." That editor certainly forgot the prophet Daniel.

lege of redeeming within a reasonable time. Dr. Hawthorne suggesting ten days as the limit, to which he offered no objection, at the same time repeating the assurance that if he was obliged to take the establishment he would depend upon me to manage it for him. On the following day Weatherford appeared at the office with the Sheriff some time in advance of the hour appointed for the sale, and without delay of a minute beyond the appointed time, when no other bidders were present, he had the property covered by the mortgage sold to himself for three thousand dollars. * * *

In announcing the change of proprietorship, Weatherford authorized me to say, editorially, that there would be no change in that department. Five days afterwards, with many professions of regard and regrets, and without any previous intimation of such a purpose, he informed me that he had been compelled, by outside pressure, to supply my place. I subsequently learned that the place had been promised to Pennoyer at the very time he was assuring me there should be no change with his consent.

Weatherford found in the sneaking Pennoyer an instrument worthy of himself—a country pedagogue who had at a ripe age arrived at the highest distinction as a clerk in a saw mill and the oracle of a lumber yard; from writing doggerel rhymes and newspaper squibs which divided the laugh between the author and his productions, his overweening vanity caused him to imagine himself a second "Brick Pomeroy" and to aspire to the position of a leading editor, his egotism overshadowing all sense of honor or decency in the pursuit of the object of his vain ambition. A week's experience as an editor of a daily paper sent him back to his regular vocation of measuring boards and collecting bills with a better appreciation of his intellectual resources than he had ever before entertained. He had gratified his ambition for elevated position with the same result that attended the climbing monkey. The place which he had made doubly vacant—by his acceptance and by his resignation—is again represented by his name, the place, under it being left open to adolescent scribblers to practice the art of composition upon.

The Herald establishment at the time it was gobbled up by Weatherford, was worth to a practical newspaper man every dollar that it had cost the stockholders, which was $20,000 more than he bid it in at. It had achieved a success never before attained by a daily newspaper upon this coast upon so small an expenditure of time and money. After laboring nearly three years with such signal success in an undertaking which no one else was willing to engage in, I was, without a moment's notice, thrown out of all share in its benefits, without a dollar for the support of my family, my vocation suspended and my professional character impeached. Twice since I have been upon this coast I have been made the victim of [illegible] on account of my adherence to Democratic principles, but the [illegible]

Senate, and [illegible]. Our people have been made to believe that these gentlemen are our enemies, and that they are pursuing us in a malignant spirit through a mere love of vengeance. I know them well, and I do not concur in that opinion. Convince them that when we laid down our arms we did so in good faith; that when we confessed our defeat we acknowledged the permanent overthrow of slavery and of the right of secession—and that we are now sincerely desirous of resuming our position in the Federal Union, not to disturb its harmony, but to contribute all our energies, mental and physical, to its lasting prosperity. Do this, and the Republican leaders I have named, and doubtless many others, will be as ready to receive us as we are to be received. But I am asked how are we to convince them. I answer, by acknowledging our own weakness and the power of the Government; by a strict compliance with the terms of reconstruction proposed by Congress. That is all. We shall have it to do. Then why not do it without so much mouthing and hesitation? Do we not perceive that it is this mouthing and hesitation that keeps alive the suspicion that we are not loyal? And this renders our situation still more critical, not to say day by day more desperate.

I am willing to have it known at Washington, as it is at home, that I opposed the ratification of the Constitution submitted at the June election, not because it conformed to the "Congressional plan," but distinctly, because it did not. Whenever a Constitution is submitted in strict conformity to that or any similar "plan" Congress may propose, I will advocate its ratification. For be it the right of Congress, speaking for the conqueror, to dictate terms to the conquered. We tried the bullet and lost; we tried the ballot and lost again. I cannot be mistaken in supposing that a very large majority of our thoughtful and deserving people concur with me in the opinion that we can do nothing but submit, and as we have it to do, 'twere better to do it quickly.

Some of the newspapers are recommending the abolition of the two commissions of Brigadier-General, which are now vacant in the army list. The first of these vacancies was caused by the retirement of Gen. Hooker from active service; the second by the death of Gen. Rousseau. If these places should be left unfilled, we should still have eight Brigadier Generals. That is a very respectable number, and we dare say the country could get along very well without any more. The saving to the treasury would be some $12,000 a year.

We find an extraordinary statement floating in the Southern papers to the effect that two ancient negroes, between 120 and 150, or thereabouts, neither of whom was a body servant to Washington, died recently of extreme old age. We can credit the age, but we doubt the rest of the story. Every old negro who has died within the last twenty years was Washington's body servant.

The benefactions of George Peabody amount to $[illegible] in gold. This comprises a gift of $1,[illegible],000 to the poor of London, $1,000,000 to the Baltimore institute, $2,000,000 for education of blacks and whites in the South, $2,000,000 to members of his family, and sums ranging from $1[illegible] to $2[illegible],000 to museums and colleges. He expended $1[illegible] on a memorial church to his mother.

The best way to affix labels on trees or plants is said to be to write the words with a lead pencil on zinc. The writing proves more distinct with age and cannot be effaced.

A Peace Measure

The editor of the Herald has written an article against the proposed suffrage amendment. If the weight of the argument were in any sort of proportion to the length of the article the editor's effort might produce very considerable effect, but its tedious length is its only prominent feature. We observe that the objections urged against the proposed amendment are precisely the same which were urged five years ago against the abolition of slavery. First, we are informed that the white and colored races "are not homogeneous, and can never properly assimilate and harmonize in social relations." Nobody expects or desires them so to assimilate. All white men are politically equal, yet there are large classes of white people who do not and never can "harmonize in social relations." The editor of the Herald sagely tells us that "it is folly for man to attempt an improvement upon the Creator's works or to attempt to harmonize and unite that which the Creator intended to remain separate." We never learned, except from Democratic oracles, that there was any want of harmony in the Creator's works. Nor have we ever heard from any other source that the Creator intended the different races of men to remain in a condition of isolation and hold no communication with each other. In short, we gravely doubt whether Democratic politicians are the persons who have the exclusive right and authority to declare the Creator's intentions. Five years ago these prophetical doctors of politics were telling us that to abolish slavery would be to throw into disorder the beautiful system established by the Creator; that it was madness "to attempt an improvement upon the Creator's works," and that the Almighty intended the system advocated and upheld by the Democratic party to stand. It was gross impiety, in their opinion to disturb the relations of the races and "abolish the work of the Creator." And we were told, furthermore, that abolition would lead immediately to social equality, and when the negroes should become free the country would become "mongrelized." Then to clinch the argument we were told again what the "Creator intended." Declarations of this sort, being absolutely blasphemous, have the advantage of immunity from ridicule.

As a second argument, we are told that the adoption of the suffrage amendment "would reduce us to the deplorable condition of mongrel Mexico." Again the very words which were used against emancipation five years ago. Although the editor of the Herald had just told us that the two races could "never assimilate or harmonize in social relations," he says under the next head that "social equality must necessarily follow political equality." The editor's mind is evidently in a bad state. There is a great black phantom before his eyes which prevent him from seeing anything in a true or consistent light. From whatever point of view he attempts to consider any political subject, he sees nothing but "nigger equality." This has been the misfortune of his whole party for the last ten years. Yet in point of fact, "nigger equality" is as far off as it was ten years, or one hundred years ago.

The third objection urged is that the suffrage amendment would be an act of "usurpation." It is peculiarly a Democratic doctrine

Mr Lincoln's Assassins

The confessions of two of the persons who were engaged in the assassination of President Lincoln were lately given to the [illegible] and appear in our columns to-day. John Surratt is clearly indicated as one of the chief conspirators. But by reason of Andrew Johnson's lenity toward rebels and assassins, Surratt goes clear. Finding security under the last amnesty proclamation, he has been made a lion in Washington, Baltimore and New York, and flaunts in the faces of an outraged people his boasts of the part he played in the crime by which Andrew Johnson was made President. Mudd has lately been released by this Executive, and it is announced that Arnold, who according to his own confession was engaged in the conspiracy will soon have a pardon. Johnson wants to finish the job of "making treason odious" before his retirement from office.

It is clear that if the assassins who were executed had been spared until Andrew Johnson's apostasy had been fully developed, they also would have gone free. He now gives up Mrs Surratt's body to her friends. There was no reason why he should not have given it to them immediately after her execution. But does any one suppose that if he had it to do over again he would allow her to be hanged? On the morning of the execution at the early hour of three o'clock Judge Wylie, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, granted a writ of habeas corpus, directed to General Hancock, then military commander at Washington, commanding him to bring into Court the body of Mary E. Surratt. General Hancock referred the matter to the President, and returned answer to Judge Wylie that he "did not produce said body by reason of the order of the President of the United States endorsed upon the writ, to which reference is hereby respectfully made." The indorsement was as follows.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
July 7, 1865, 11 o'clock, A. M.

To Major General W. S Hancock, Commander, etc.: I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do hereby declare that the writ of habeas corpus has been heretofore suspended in such cases as this, and I do hereby suspend this writ, and direct that you proceed to execute the order heretofore given upon the judgment of Military Commission, and you will give this order in return to this writ. ANDREW JOHNSON, President.

A great ado has been and is still made because this woman was hanged. We have reproduced the above that our readers may not forget who was her executioner. Andrew Johnson is just about to retire from office, what revenge will John Surratt take upon him for hanging his mother?

National Retrenchment.

There is evidently a sincere desire in Congress to respond to the popular call for economy and retrenchment. During the session thus far, that body has shown a great unwillingness to consider any scheme which would impose additional burdens on the Treasury. Says a Washington letter: "Everything of this character so far, has failed in both Houses. Witness the recommittal of the Sue Murphy claim, not because it was of much importance in itself, but because it opened the doors of the Treasury for hundreds of millions of the same character; witness the defeat of the Niagara Ship Canal bill, with a clear majority believing the enterprise right and wishing it success, only because it took twelve millions from the Government; witness the defeat of all territorial bills and schemes that ask for more money than they propose to return, the evident reluctance to increase the tariff; the

INTERESTING HISTORY

Beriah Brown and the "Herald."

[illegible]

The following are the material portions of an article in Beriah Brown's new paper the Democratic Press, entitled "My Connection with the Herald."

The paper was started in March 18[illegible], by Mr [illegible] [illegible] Mr Abbott was [illegible] [illegible] weekly paper [illegible] [illegible] the magnitude of the expense of conducting a daily [illegible] [illegible] the supporters of the [illegible] were but a very short time in finding out. Within [illegible] months after the paper was started, I was urgently solicited to come to its rescue from impending failure. After urgent appeals to my sense [illegible] the cause of Democracy and against my personal inclination, I accepted the situation [illegible]. Three weeks before the general election, and in the midst of the canvass, I took the principal editorial charge of the paper. * *

[illegible] after the election and without any previous [illegible] of his intention, Mr. Abbott served me a written valedictory announcing the suspension of the paper, which was to appear in the next issue of the paper on the following day. At that time I had made no permanent engagement to remain and was at liberty to return to my family and business in California without breach of faith to any. I tried in vain to dissuade Mr. Abbott from his purpose. He was immovable. Feeling the necessity of the paper to the party and the serious pecuniary loss to Mr. Butler involved in its abandonment without his knowledge or consent, I at once proposed to Mr. Abbott to assume the entire responsibility of keeping up the publication of the paper until other arrangements could be made. He accepted the proposition, and thus I cut off all other resources and staked every thing upon the uncertain hazard. Before relief came it was the most desperate financial struggle which it had ever been my fortune to engage in, the results of each day leaving the publication of the next issue of the paper of doubtful calculation. At length, through the exertions of a few Democrats, a joint stock company was organized upon a capital stock of $20,000, the amount which I deemed necessary to put the paper upon a self supporting basis. The whole amount was subscribed, but less than $4,000, in addition to what had already been expended, was paid in. This amount being insufficient to place the concern upon a paying basis, the Directors, instead of enforcing the payment of delinquent stock subscriptions, made a loan of $6,000 to meet current expenses, each of the Directors becoming responsible for one thousand dollars of the loan, and no one calculating that the earnings of the paper would be sufficient to pay the loan for several years to come. After the business began to indicate a success on less expense than was anticipated in fixing the amount of stock, Dr. Weatherford, a Director, commenced buying up the stock of those who regarded their subscriptions as contributions to the paper and were willing to transfer their stock for the benefit of the company. He thus accumulated in his own right $1,700 of full paid stock, some of which he purchased for 25 cents on the dollar. He then, upon the pretence that he had money on hand for which he and no use, bought up the notes given by the other Directors and at the meeting in July last took a mortgage upon the establishment for $6,000 and interest. Being then the sole creditor and one of the principal stockholders, he developed his design by proposing to turn me out of the editorial control of the paper, alleging as his reason that he wanted a paper like the La Crosse Democrat. Failing to obtain the consent of the other Directors to this change, he declared his purpose of foreclosing his mortgage. He was persuaded by his friends to delay the foreclosure until after the November election. In the mean time friends of the paper who were opposed to any change in the editorial management, opened negotiations with Dr. Weatherford to buy his mortgage. He refused to sell the mortgage without disposing of his stock at the same time. This was acceded to upon condition that he would be allowed to make up the required sum, which amounted in all to $8,200, responsible parties offering to guarantee the payment in a very short time. Weatherford expressed himself entirely satisfied with that proposition, he also declared on several occasions that he had changed his views in my favor, and that however the affair terminated it was his desire that I should be retained on the paper. On Tuesday, the day before the sale, Dr. Hawthorne and I had an interview with him, when be renewed his pledge, upon his word and honor, that we should have the privi

From Cuba.

HAVANA, Feb. 8.—A band of insurgents, numbers unknown, made their appearance on the line of the railroad between Cienfugos and Villa Clara. A detachment of troops marched against them.

A panic prevails in Cienfugos. Many families have fled from the town, fearing the insurrection will spread to that district. They have arrived in this city.

Fort Cabanas, which guards the place, is garrisoned only by a battalion of volunteers. A force of regulars has been dispatched to reinforce them.

The Diario, in its accounts of the outbreak at Clarnierons, says the first act of the rebels was to destroy the section of railroad between Cienfugos and Villa Clara. That paper acknowledges the situation in this district as grave.

Much excitement is created in Havana, by versions more or less exaggerated as to the events of the central department.

The approaches of the rebels to the vicinity of Cienfugos, which is the centre of a large planting district, is expected to cause a rise in the sugar market.

Several attempts at revolution had been made in the Vuelta Arajo region and the First and Fifth battalions of volunteers are under orders to proceed to that point and prevent a renewal of disorders.

Stragglers continue to arrive at various points on the coast, it is supposed with the intention of joining the revolutionists. Many are arrested on suspicion.

The government has chartered several steamers and are preparing some men of war and light draft steam launches to range about the Keys and prevent the disembarkment of an expedition from Nassau. When that is accomplished the flotilla will proceed to attack the earthworks which the insurgents threw up lately.

The Laguanja rebels recently assembled at Mansane to the number of 300. They were attacked by the troops and, according to official reports, were defeated, losing all their arms, ammunition and eleven prisoners.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Advices from Athens are contradictory. It is now said the new cabinet, under Seamis, is firmly for peace, which is thereby secured.

The reported battle between the Turks and Montenegrams is denied.

The Standard predicts that the Alabama treaty will be rejected by the United States, and is sure the next administration will not get such favorable terms of the settlement of the question.

PARIS, Feb 8.—A dispatch from Athens says King George declares that Greece must either accept the protocol or receive his resignation of the Crown.

MADRID, Feb. 8.—Exciting rumors were in circulation all day in regard to the movements of the Carlists. One, that the Carlists attacked San Antonio, in the Provinces of Santando, and were repulsed after a sharp fight.

Very Sensible Advice.

There are some men of reason and sense among the leaders of the late rebellion. A. G. Brown, of Mississippi, is one. He was an original secessionist, carrying the theories of the Democratic party to their furthest logical extreme. He has been Governor of his State, a member of Congress, and a United States Senator. At the beginning of the rebellion he was Jeff. Davis' colleague in the Senate, and was a rebel Senator during the war. Unlike many of his associates in rebellion, he has never forgotten which was the victorious and which the defeated party in the late struggle; and he has recently written a very sensible letter of advice to some of his Southern friends, urging upon them the necessity of a change of policy. Absolute submission to reconstruction, he tells them, is what they must come to. We give some extracts from the letter:

I do not know many of the leading men in Congress. The few that I do know well, I am satisfied, will do us justice if our case is fairly laid before them. Among them are Wilson, of Massachusetts, Wade, Trumbull and Chandler, of the
